TATAL AFFRAY BETWEEN EX-GOVEROR WARMOTE AND A NEW ORLEANS PUBLISHER. NEW ORLEANS, December 27 .- In a fight elween Dan. C. Byerly, manager of the Bulletin, and ex-Governor Warmoth, on Salarday, on Canal street, Byerly knocked Warmoth down with a stick and jumped on him, when Warmoth, drawing his kuife, stabbed Byerly several times in the abdomen, from the effects of which he has since died Warmoth was arrested. The difficulty grey at of a controversy between Warmoth and e Bulletin, which led to the publication on riday by Warmoth of a card addressed to manager of the Bulletin reflecting upon hal paper and Mr. Jewell, one of the editors Warmoth has made the following statement

I replied that would not fight if I could as well avoid that I was no tighter, and that there yould be time enough to answer the quesion about duelling when I was challenged. Late in the day the effair was confided to our respective friends. They met at 8 o'clock in evening, and agreed that Jewell and myshould fight in Alabama on Monday morning, the weapons to be duelling pistols, and the distance ten paces. These terms having been accepted, I did not, of apprehend an attack, especialfrom any one connected with Bulletin. My understanding of such matters is that antagonists, at a pendmeeting, should be courteous, and I just on the eve of tipping my hat to Mr. Byerly, in front of whom two ladies ere walking, the street being crowded, when he struck me with a heavy stick on the ad, inflicting the wound you see." Soon after we fell a policeman took the knife out f my hands, and some of the crowd pulled Byerly off. I understand Byerly has been at, and I am accused of doing the cutting. Warmoth was arrested immediately after the fight and conveyed to the Third-precine tation. He has since been transferred to the parish prison. Byerly received six wounds in the abdomen, one of which his physicians considered very dangerous but necessarily mortal. Shortly after being wounded Byerly was removed to the Oreans Infirmary, on Dauphene street. The Bulletin publishes a statement of an eyewitness of the Warmoth affair. The statement differs somewhat from that of Warmoth as to the cutting. This witness states that the knife was open when drawn, and that two or three stabs were made before they fell. Byerly's wounds were in the left side just over the hip, one of them being Brerly was aged forty-eight years was a printer by trade, was a native of Penn-sylvania, and came to New Orleans in 1845. [Special dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.] Suicide of a Presbyterian Minister-Shocking Effect of Hallucination-

Particulars of the Affair. Washington, December 27, 1874 .- The ommunity here was shocked at noon to-day by the intelligence that the Rev. J. N. Coombs pastor of the Western Presbyterian church had committed suicide. The church over which he presided is one of the most flour ishing in the western portion of the city. He was expected to preach as usual this morning, but as he had not arrived at some minutes past the usual time some of the members of the congregation went to his residence, on H near Nineteenth street, and learned that he was in his chamber. Upon going to the door it was found to be locked, and as no sign was given after repeated knocking it was burst open and the minister was found lying upon the bed in his own blood, dead.

A razor near at hand showed the instrument with which the fatal deed was done. Of late he has been known to be restles and apparently troubled in mind. His wife has been for some time insane, and is now resident at the insane asylum on the other side of the Eastern Branch, where she has been for twenty years. Brooding upon his troubles and her sad condition is supposed to have affected the reason of the deceased, and it is said, too, that a statement in the Sunday Herald of this city tended to lead to his sad death. This publication stated that a minister of one of the leading churches of the city had been detected in stealing first one book and then another from one of the bookstores; that the bookseller had taxed him with the theft, and that he had confessed, expressed great penitonce, and begged that he should not be exposed, and that for that reason his name was withheld from the It is thought that he has long been labor ing under some subtle form of mental disease, and that he believed himself to be the person referred to, and took his life under the fears engendered by such an hallucination. He was a man of mature age, a good preacher, and most popular in all the circles of his acquaintance. At several late meet ings of the presbytery to which he was at tached he has been the moderator. Soon after noon to-day the coroner held an inques upon his remains, and the jury returned a verdict that he came to his death by suicide while laboring under aberration of mind. Mrs. Cathcart, who resides at No. 722 Eighteenth street, and where for a long time Mr. Coombs boarded, states that he arose as usual this morning, and after dressing walked down stairs to the parlor, where he read over the sermon that he had prepared for to-day. It was on the proper observance of the holidays. Then, shortly before 9 o'clock, he again retired to his room, and during this time he might have read the article in the Sunday paper referred to, but of this no one in the house speaks positively. The paper was found on a table with his sermon. Shortly before the first bell rang for service, about 10:45, she noticed that he did not come down as usual, but paid no particular attention to the delay, but when the second bell rang, which immediately precedes the services, she went up to his room to inform him of the fact, thinking possibly that he had not heard the bell in his room. She found the door locked, which, too, was something unusual. Then summoning Dr. Sweetman, who had come from the church to inquire the reason for the minister's delay in not being in church, the door was forced open to find that he was dead. The inquest leveloped no further facts, and this evening

Washington, D. C., December 27.—The killing of Byerly by ex-Governor Warmoth occasioned much comment here to-day among his church scout the idea that he took a book from any bookstore unless done under hallucination. The news of the tragedy was announced to his congregation by Chief-Jus-

He remarked that although not a church-member himself nothing made him so sick at heart as these church scandals, and he thought in the present case the culprit could be punished as he ought to be without injuring his poor family and the church with which he was connect ed by exposure in the newspapers or the police court. [Troy Times] AS BOAR The most indicrous shooting affray that we have ever been called upon to chronicle occurred Sunday morning in Archie Chapman's saloon, on Third street. Chapman; Samuel McCombs, of Ida Hill; Robert Smith, esiding on King street, who sometimes tends bar for Chapman; James O'Neil, and John Magnor, had been drinking pretty Ireely, and John Magnor, had been drinking pretty Ireely, and their frequent potations had been entirened by numerous songs. Finally McCombs was asked to sing a Yorksbire ballad, which he refused to do. Chapman had some words with him, and ordered him out of the saloon. He refused to go; whereupon Chapman went to the door and blew policeman's whistle, which whistle he had no business to have. Three policemen responded, but refused to arrest Mc-Combs, who had gone out, on the ground that they had not seen him act in a disorderly manner. Chapman went into the house, and few minutes afterward McCombs returned and asked Chapman what he was going to do. McCombs stood about seven feet from Chapman, and the young man Smith was an equal distance from McCombs. As soon as the latter entered the door Chapman raised his revolver, pointed it directly at him, and fired. The ball struck Smith, and he immediately fell forward on his face, exclaiming

"I'm shot." Dr. Camp was summoned and upon examination decided that the ball had entered Smith's abdomen, as a wound was plainly visible. He dared not probe it, and it appeared to be evident that the bulle had lodged somewhere in his stomach; in fact Smith insisted that it was there, as he felt something warm in his bowels. Dr. Camp put a plaster on the wound and advised Smith to keep quiet. The victim was put in bed, in Chapman's house, where he remained until yesterday morning, when he felt so much better that he was placed in a carriage and taken to the corner of Eighth and Jacob streets, where he has friends residing. He complained of feeling bad, and refused to walk. A singular circumstance was that no holes could be found in Smith's coat, vest, pantaloons, or shirts, but the wound was visible; and how it came there remained for a time a mystery. Now comes the ludicrous portion of the story. Yesterday at 1 o'clock Captain Quigley went with Dr. Camp to the
